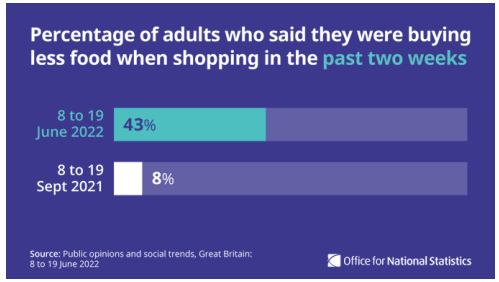
What The Graph 5: teacher notes



There are some potentially confusing things here:

The time-period from 8 to 19 June might seem like it ought to be two weeks (it isn't), but the question asked people to comment based on their previous two weeks (regardless of when they were asked).

The most recent data was collected in June 2022, while the previous set of data was collected in Sept 2021. Might some people have different eating/purchasing habits in the autumn compared to the summer?

Is it possible for some people to be included in the data on both occasions?

Does this need to be a graph? (The report it is taken from doesn't include the graph.)

Here is the tweet, is it an accurate description?
